Working with our organizing committee Harding Consultants produced an outstanding conference. The conference theme was 'The Heat is On' and when the heat really came on Glenda never sweated. With over 600 delegates the conference was one of the largest Hardings had handled and required good communication and attention to detail. Glenda met regularly with the team and kept us on track. Even the late influx of registrations, which put pressure on Glenda and her team, was handled efficiently.

With large conferences the social events often become the measuring stick of its success. Glenda's energy and stylish eye meant that our delegates enjoyed three exceptional evenings.

We were delighted with the way the conference ran and our delegates gave it a great rating.
